

Routes to the Teaching License

Teachers Council of Thailand (TCT) has developed Self-Assessments to help applicants discover which requirements and standards they must meet prior applying for a license.

Route 1 : Persons who have had teaching experience with not less than 1 year and

1. Hold a degree in Education or
2. Hold other degrees and a teaching license from abroad or
3. Hold other degrees and a graduate diploma in Education with 1 year course of study.

In addition, they also must successfully complete a professional training course and pass assessment of knowledge as follows:

- (1) Thai language and culture
- (2) Professional ethics

When they have passed the assessment according to (1) and (2), they can file an application.

In case of applicants' teaching experience with less than 1 year, they shall provide a certification letter, issued by an educational institution, and submit it to the TCT for issuing a teaching practice certificate and permitting them to attend the training course.

Route 2 : Persons who have had teaching experience with not less 1 year and hold other degrees without a teaching license from abroad; or those who do not hold a graduate diploma in Education with a study course of not less than 1 year, must pass the test, training and assessment as follows:

- (1) Thai language and culture
- (2) Professional ethics
- (3) Professional knowledge

When they have passed the assessment according to (1), (2) and (3), they can file an application.

In case of applicants' teaching experience with less than 1 year, they shall provide a certification letter, issued by an educational institution, and submit it to the TCT for issuing a teaching practice certificate and permitting them to attend the training course, and professional knowledge test.

Route 3 : Persons who have had teaching experience with not less than 1 year, and also hold a teaching license from abroad, but do not hold a degree must show a certification letter with a document pertaining to recognition and reliability of teaching experience issued by an educational institution.

To certify professional knowledge and experience must be done in accordance with the resolution of the TCT Board whereby applicants must successfully complete a training course and pass the assessment of knowledge as follows:

- (1) Thai language and culture
- (2) Professional ethics

When they have passed the assessment according to (1) and (2), they can file an application.